

Each Side of the Wall

Here we are again
On each side of the wall
It's always been the same
Time and time again
I'll raise my voice a little more than you can take

These times are dragging us to haunted places
I've never seen you wear such different faces
Just don't let go of my heart

A storm is on the way
The wind is picking up from scratch like everyday
Everyone is right
And everyone is wrong
But no one seems to care

These times are dragging us to haunted places
I've never seen you wear such different faces
Just don't let go of my heart
Don't let go of my heart

When I feel ashamed, I can see how mean I can be
When you are afraid, can't you see how weak you can be ?
But if you wanna fix us
I'll make it right
If you take one step to the river
You can find me there, I'll be washing the clouds away

These times are dragging us to haunted places
I've never seen you wear such different faces
Just don't let go of my heart
Don't let go